ASCEND FEDERAL CREDIT UNION AWARDS YOUTH ACCOUNT HOLDER $1,000

Saving money is its own reward, but an extra $1,000 to start the New Year isn't bad either.

That's exactly how Kelly House is beginning 2010, thanks to her Go youth account from Ascend Federal Credit Union.

Credit union members age 18-24 with a Go account are automatically entered into an annual drawing for $1,000 if they meet certain criteria including using their checking account and receiving e-statements rather than paper statements.

"We congratulate Ms. House on being chosen the Go youth account winner for 2009," Ascend President and CEO Caren Gabriel said. "A youth account from Ascend provides young members an excellent opportunity to learn how to spend and save money wisely. Our hope is that they carry those skills with them into adulthood."

Along with the Go account, Ascend offers the Discover account for children age 12 and younger and the Venture account for teens 13-17.
